

Florida Government: Sites for Information

Florida Dept. of Environmental Protection

<http://www.dep.state.fl.us/>

This is an excellent beginning point for information on environmental issues in the state.

Florida House of Representatives

www.myfloridahouse.gov

Home page for the Florida House of Representatives. Legislative history is available by the following steps. Under “Quick Links click on “2009 Citator.” On the page that opens you will find a variety of ways of searching for House and Senate bills.

The home page has links dealing with other aspects of Florida government.

Florida Senate

<http://www.flsenate.gov>

Home page for the Florida Senate. The page provides links to resources such as information on current legislation and state statutes and constitution. Links are provided for other resources and functions of the state government. The link entitled “Historical Photographs, Oral Histories, and Archives” provides access to some interesting history resources.

My Florida

<http://www.myflorida.com/>

Billed as “The Official Portal of the State of Florida,” this site provides information on many aspects of life in Florida. Links are provided on the left for major subject areas such as government and business.

Looking for information on a particular division of government? Use the “Find an Agency” tab under the “Welcome to Florida” banner at the top of the page.

Looking for information and application forms for economic or health assistance? Go to www.myflorida.com/accessflorida/

The Florida Government Information Locator Service

<http://dlis.dos.state.fl.us/fgils/index.html>

Provided and maintained by the Florida Department of State, State Library of Florida, this site “provides listings of sources by branch of government or specific topics of interest.”
