BSEE 3R Reflection Form

After the formal observation, teacher candidates reflect on the presented lesson. They must write a 3R reflection which includes how the students mastered the learning goals, strengths and weakness of the lesson. The following format will be used for the 3R reflection.

- Reaction (Affective Domain, To Feel). What was your response (favorable, unfavorable, or mixed)? Cite at least one example from the text that illustrates your response.

- Relevance (Cognitive Domain, To Think). How is the article related to the issue-at-hand and how it is relevant to other readings/discussions in this course? How is the article meaningful or how does it contribute to the other readings/discussions in this course and/or issues being discussed? What are some alternative viewpoints? Cite examples from the reading to support your ideas.

- Responsibility (Psychomotor Domain, To Do). How will the knowledge gained from the event be used in your profession? Give at least one example of the possible application in your personal or professional life, or explain why you think this information is not useful. What are some questions you still have regarding this topic?
